Override Tax Explained At TEAC Meeting

"I dare anyone to vote against his children."

This terse comment was directed to Torrance voters Monday at a luncheon meeting of the Torrance Educational Advisory Committee by Superintendent of Schools Dr. J. H. Hall.

Commenting on the upcoming override tax proposal and resolution to require $14 million in state aid, Hall said Torrance children stand to reap all the benefits if the two proposals are passed by local voters at the Oct. 9 election. Seven of the bad checks were passed in Torrance, authorities said.

He and Sam Waldrup, assistant superintendent for business, outlined key aspects of the special schools election to the approximately 100 TEAC members and guests at the meeting. Both pointed up the fact that the sky-rocketing growth of the district will find the overcrowded condition of schools out of hand if the proposals fail to pass.

Two

suspects were held over to face trial in Long Beach Superior Court July 26 on four counts of forgery each at their preliminary hearing Monday in South Bay Municipal Court, authorities stated.

Doyle Hornbeck, 34, bartender, and Goendoline M. Holder, 32, waitress, face trial on the charges. They were taken into custody in San Francisco and charged with passing a number of worthless documents in Torrance. They cashed about $325 in bad checks, detectives said.

The two suspects were held over to face trial in Long Beach Superior Court July 26 on four counts of forgery each at their preliminary hearing Monday in South Bay Municipal Court, authorities stated.

Further support of the two school proposals was given this week by the Torrance Chamber of Commerce. President John A. Ebbinghouse announced the Chamber voted unanimously to support and endorse the two issues after meeting late Monday with Hall and

New Promotion Group Moves On Four Fronts

The Torrance Chamber of Commerce's new advertising and publicity committee is making progress on four different fronts, it was reported here yesterday by Chairman Gerald M. Eschman, M.D.

1. Roy M. Burns is investigating use by Trade Journals of special stories about Torrance as an industrial center.

2. Willy Blount and King Williams are to investigate and make recommendations on the use of paid space advertising in national media.

3. Walter A. Garber is concentrating on getting full use of the revised film, "Torrance, City of Industrial Opportunity."

4. Don Hyde, W. R. Zappas, and Jack Phillips have already made an initial survey on the places additional signs to mark the entrance to Torrance and to direct persons to Torrance.

City officials reported at the same time that the placing of boundary signs had become a city responsibility on July 1, and that additional signs would be ordered immediately.

The committee was set up recently by Chamber President John Ebbinghouse to pursue a program of promoting Torrance.

Conciliator Keeps Drug Talks Going

Arbitration between the Retail Clerks' Union and the Harbin Arts Employers' Council continued yesterday afternoon under the direction of John Condon, of the California Conciliation Service.

Representatives of the union and council are negotiating over the proposed extension of the new chain drug firm contract to 28 independent drug stores in the harbor area.

Condon was called in for the negotiations Tuesday morning by Retail Clerks' Secretary Ben Scott after a meeting on Monday between the employers and union representatives failed to iron out differences.

The union is asking extension of the five-year contract agreed on by Southland chain drug firms to the independent drug stores.

According to Frank Scloover, secretary of the Employers' Council, the independent drugists want to stand by their separate contracts which reflect the differences between theirs and the chain stores.

Each party has filed its position with the conciliator, who thus signed a copy of the agreement.

Notices of arbitration were filed with the Conciliation Board on July 27, and the hearing is set for Aug. 1.

The parties are to meet at 9 a.m. at the office of the Conciliation Board, 1111 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

Each side has been represented by a lawyer, and the conciliator is to be assisted by a panel of three.
